New Testament Survey 1 Course Overview

New Testament Survey 1 is the first of a two-part course. This one-semester course focuses attention on the study of the Gospels. The course also attends to various background issues, such as where the New Testament came from, how it was written, and how the particular texts that make up the New Testament were selected. The course does not require or promote any particular theological or denominational ideology, but instead encourages students to become good and interested readers of the New Testament.

In this course, students will examine:

- The background of the New Testament
- The Old Testament story that the New Testament continues
- The canonization, transmission, and translation of the New Testament
- The Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John) through careful reading

By the end of the course, students will be expected to do the following:

- Identify the four Gospels.
- Describe the differences between the Gospels, especially concerning content and major themes.
- Identify major covenants from the Old Testament and how they are fulfilled in the New Testament.
- Explain how the New Testament documents were written, collected, and preserved.
- Engage in questions of faith that are raised by the life and teachings of Jesus.

Supplemental Resources

Students will need access to a Bible, either in print or online.

A note about Bible translations: the student may use any translation of the Bible the student prefers. The lessons use the New American Standard Bible (unless the student has opted for the King James Version instead). These versions are chosen for copyright reasons, not as value statements about particular translations. Students may read assignments from any version of the Bible, and memorization assignments can be completed from any version the student chooses as well.

Students do not need any other additional resources to complete the course.
